“ Hi Pop! They did it! Your Boys in Blue are going to the World Serious (as you called The World Series) I watched game 7 against the Milwaukee Brewers and throughout the whole game I thought about you and I imagined you watching the game with a big smile on your face. I am sure you heard me talking to you the entire game. So now our Dodgers are in for a battle. So you be there, have their backs, keep them strong from heaven. I am so, so, happy tonight for the Dodgers and for you because I know, wherever you are, you are so happy to see your beloved Los Angeles Dodgers win. Love you pop.

“ March 21, 2018 Dear Pop, As of tomorrow, you will have been gone for five years. Time has passed but I still miss you like crazy. I quote your crazy quotes. I used one tonight, Little Bill was in my way so "Moof Joseph!" just popped out of my mouth. I do that all the time. The situation occurs and I say what you would have said. I keep you alive that way! Half the time, I just say it, automatically, with no before hand thought. I found an old birthday card you gave me and it contained so much love, It filled my eyes with tears. Then, I found a card you gave to Michael for his first birthday. It was filled with that same amount of love. You were the best dad and grandpa a girl could ever wish for. Michael always loved you so, so, much. I have had you on my mind so much of late. I dream you the other night as well. I love that. I caught your scent at the cabin weeks ago. I know you were there, so I talked to you. Tomorrow we will celebrate your anniversary. Me and your younger daughter, Sherri. We will wish you were there with us. Well pop, another year. Another year of no one, (except Mary) calling me Junebug. It is okay. I know you are here now and then. You take care of Dave and Ernest over there. Say hello to the entire family from me and send my love. Love you with all my heart, The Junebug.

“ Hi Pop, As of tomorrow, you will have been gone for four years. I can hardly believe it. I miss you so much still. At times, when I am having a bad day, I long to go to your house and be with you. My sanctuary. To be with you and be left alone by the world. A safe haven. I miss my sanctuary so much. I do not dream of you much, I was sad about that but I know you are far to busy with everyone on the other side to visit with me. That one visit where I found you at Aunties, with Auntie and Uncle Ralph was such a treat. I woke up feeling so happy to have had that time with you. So pop, I know you are just fine. Being such a good, good, man, I am sure god is holding you in a very special place and in much happiness. Enjoy your day, visit when you can please. Please look after mom. I have a very strong inkling you are doing just that. God seems to be holding mom very gently in his hands these days. I think I finally know the girl you fell in love with before life messed her up. She is indeed very special! She asks about you all the time. Okay pops, gotta go. I will be thinking about you so much today and tomorrow. I miss you more than words can say. Love you so, so, much. The June Bug

“ Pop, As of today, you have been gone for 3 years. It seems like an eternity. I miss you every day. So much has changed here. I am glad you are at peace and no longer here on earth suffering. However; it does not make it any easier here, where people miss you so much. I watched a video a few days ago of you and heard your laugh. What a sweet sound it was! I miss that most of all and my own laughter when I was with you. Love you and miss you so much, The June Bug.

“ To my dear Pop,
Tomorrow, you will have left this world for two years now. I still miss you every single day. I have been thinking of you so much as of late. You were the best dad in the world. I will always think of myself as "Daddy's girl". I miss your smile and your sparkling eyes when you would see me and my special greeting, "There she is, there is my little sweetheart!" I still find it hard to believe you are truly gone. Till we meet again pop, I will always love you! Your Little Sweetheart, The June Bug.

“ Hi Pop, It has been seven months since you left us. I think about you every day and miss you so much. I know you are fine. You are no longer weak, sick, and unhappy. That is all great but you are not with me. You left me with so much. I was so lucky to have you as my father. It is tough no longer having you call me June Bug and be daddy's girl. Thank you for always being there when I needed you. Thank you for always having my back. Thank you for loving me like you did. Thank you for being here with me for a long while. You said that when you finally passed, you were looking forward to meeting your father as he passed when you were only six months old. I know he is proud of that baby boy he never saw grow up. Say hello to Dave, take care of Ernest, and give Auntie a huge hug for me. I miss you so. Love, The June Bug.

“ Blas has been a good neighbor of ours for many, many years. It is sad that he has died but he was here for a long time and has many friends who will remember him and look forward to continuing and enjoying his company as the great plan of our Father in Heaven has prepared for us.
